FLOWER COST

In our current economic state, we understand that the cost of living is high. Planning for your wedding can be daunting when looking for cost-effective ways to plan your wedding. That is why we have opened up our elopement price ranges again to accommodate those wishing to spend less when it comes to their wedding. This does not change the cost of flowers and in most cases flower prices are higher than usual.

What does this mean for your wedding? It means that your going to have to allow for the flower prices to increase, which means your budget will have to be slightly flexible then you where originally thinking/intending. As annoying as this may seem, us as florist do not have much control over the prices and we simply have to work with the prices at the time.

What is involved?

Labour Cost

Travel - To and from the markets and to and from the venue

Materials for constructing the arrangements such as wire or ribbon

Entry fees/parking fees to the markets

Wages of the head florist, and supplementary florist

Cool room use

Materials for delivering and the delivering of your flowers post to the wedding

Setting up and pack up at the venue (installing floral arrangement's and the cleanup)

FAQ

How far out from my wedding should i book my florist?

1 year-2 month in advance is preferred but if you come to us 6 weeks out and we have availability, then we can make it happen!

Can I keep my wedding florals after my wedding?

100%! We can bundle the flowers up for you to give back to guests or to enjoy yourselves! This does come at an additional cost*
